BCI Forecaster is a leading monthly indicator of construction contract values hitting the market in the upcoming three months. Construction start values are presented Australia-wide, broken down by civil and building construction as well as buy five states and six key building sectors/project categories. The three month outlook is contrasted against the previous three months' development and the same three months during the prior year. The BCI Forecaster is an indispensable short-term planning tool, allowing decision makers to set realistic goals and parameters for their sales and operations team.
